

ConnectOne Meet Anthony

Meet Hunter “Anthony,” a resilient, fun-loving, loyal soft-spoken young man.

Anthony loves Oreo cookies, Oreo cookie ice cream, Oreo cookie Blizzards, and anything else you can think of that pairs well with Oreo cookies. He also has a ferocious appetite for pepperoni pizza. Anthony’s favorite activities include building and collecting Lego Sets, playing video games, watching movies, and hanging out with people he cares about.

Anthony’s favorite class in school is orchestra, and a passion for the violin and enjoys music very much. Anthony is very relational and deeply invests in his friendships, family, and adult relationships. He enjoys spending quality time doing various activities. Anthony desires to maintain as many connections with friends as possible. His career goal is to become a police officer someday. He enjoys learning about law enforcement and is fascinated with police cars.

Anthony would do well in almost any family if they give him clear realistic expectations and boundaries, are patient, and allow him to maintain contact with his biological grandmother and other family members. A family would also need to remain engaged in trauma therapy and be willing to work closely with Anthony’s team to set behavioral goals for him. Anthony does well with younger children and enjoys being a big brother. His team only recruits in-state families.

Anthony was born in 2009.
